I might agree with local broadcasters if they were really serving their audience for traffic reports. But they're not. Local stations in Los Angeles (the traffic capital of the nation) spend less than a minute on traffic in each report. no matter how many traffic tie-ups there may be. That's hogwash! Thanks goodness for XM Radio, which provides all the traffic reports, no matter how long it takes. Please, let XM Radio continue their traffic reports. Tell the local broadcasters that if they want to be taken seriously for traffic reports, they need to provide ALL the traffic reports known at that moment -- not just select out what fits in 60 seconds.

Sincerely,
Michael Daniels
